

ENCOURAGE BEEF PRODUCERS TO USE FORAGE TESTING

James B. Neel
Professor
Department of Animal Science

A very small number of Tennessee beef producers have their hay and silage analyzed for nutrition value. This practice can provide information that will help producers more effectively and economically feed their cow herds.

Make this "money-saving" practice part of your Extension educational program this fall and winter.

ENCOURAGE BEEF PRODUCERS TO USE FORAGE TESTING

James B. Neel
Professor
Department of Animal Science

A very small number of Tennessee beef producers have their hay and silage analyzed for nutrition value. This practice can provide information that will help producers more effectively and economically feed their cow herds.

Make this "money-saving" practice part of your Extension educational program this fall and winter.